

seen: the ultra-designer residential phone

With its elegant curves and dynamic design, the new Seen reinvents the residential phone.

Sagemcom continues to drive ultra-contemporary designs in its residential phone ranges with the release of this particularly innovative product.

The Seen stands out for its futuristic design, which will delight both demanding users and those who love streamlined looks. Its high quality finishes - glossy paint, metal insert and white connections – add a touch of refinement.

Its elegant shape becomes a component of everyone's interior design spirit, and its ergonomic cordless handset is particularly handy for daily use.

Equipped with a large 1.8 inch back-lit screen, comfortable keyboard and directory for 100 contacts, this is an ideal phone for the whole family with its numerous functions. Positioned on its base or used in hands-free mode, the Seen will satisfy all users with its three-way conference facility, double call management, programmable alarm and excellent sound quality. It is also possible to add up to four GAP-compatible handsets to the base.

It is particularly energy-efficient, providing autonomy of over 250 hours away from its base (not including communication), thanks to the Eco feature. And if you can't remember where you left the handset, the paging function helps you find it in a hurry.
